

Short History of Cyprus Wines

The history of winemaking in Cyprus can be traced back nearly 6,000 years. Indeed, in 2005 a team of archaeologists concluded that some Chalcolithic wine jars, which were discovered in Erimi in the 1930s, were the oldest of their kind in the world, dating back to 3,500 BC. This provided conclusive proof that the first wines in the Mediterranean region were produced in Cyprus.

Commandaria: The Wine of Kings and the King of Wines

Commandaria is a sweet, delicious dessert wine with a natural warm ruby colour. It is one of the best and most famous wines in Cyprus and is the oldest wine in the world still in production. It is believed to have first been made by the ancient Greeks, 4,000 years ago, when it was a popular drink at festivals celebrating the goddess of Love and Beauty, Aphrodite. The name 'Commandaria' however dates back to the crusades in the 12th century. It was greatly enjoyed at the wedding of Richard the Lionheart in Cyprus and was thus pronounced as the Wine of Kings and the King of Wines. This unique wine is produced from mature, sun-dried grapes of the varieties 'Xinisteri' and 'Mavro'.
